

Elections 2012

Poll Worker Information and Training for the Presidential Preference Primary

News and Information

It is time to start thinking about the upcoming 2012 elections. Our first election will be the Presidential Preference Primary on January 31, 2012.

New laws passed in 2011 mean changes for voters, candidates, committee members and poll workers. 2012 is also a reapportionment year. Therefore, some precincts will change before the January 31 election. We have a lot to talk about! That is why training will be very important this election.

To better serve you, we will launch a new website that will allow you to log in, access information and take online courses.

Online Poll Worker Access

Once you have returned the enclosed postcard indicating you are available to work the January 31, 2012 election, we will email you a user number and password.

If you have not provided an email address or if you need to update your email address, please go to our website and create a new poll worker account.

The Poll Worker Online Web Access will allow you to register for classes, check your status and assignment, update your file and take online refresher courses.

Poll Worker Training

Training will begin in December.

We will offer regular lecture classes in locations across Leon County and Hybrid courses which combine passing 2 online training classes and attending a 1 1/2 hour training forum.

You will receive more information regarding the training dates and locations, as well as information regarding the Hybrid courses soon.
